With the colder weather on the way, I guess we can say we have another outdoor flying season completed. So it is time for your Fall clean up of both your yard and your planes. Just like your yard, where you have to mow the grass for the last time, rake the leaves, trim the bushes, prepare your mower and other power equipment for winter storage, we should do the same for our gas and glow engines. Now that so many fly with electric power they still have to put their batteries to rest. You know the routine, check your plane for any repairs that need to be made, turn the engine over to suck a little after run oil into it. (ie Marvel engine oil) and charge the batteries to about 75% of their capacity, and thank them for a Summer of fun.

Now that we have put our planes to sleep for the long cold winter, you should think of yourself, and maybe look to a visit to a warmer area. Once you decide where you are going you should look to the AMA's Web Site, then click "members and services", on the drop down menu click "club services", then click on "find a club". At this point type in the Zip code of the area you'll be visiting. That will bring up the clubs in that area and information about their flying fields. A visit to a flying field is a good way to kill some time while your wife is shopping, etc. If you didn't get a plane out of "winter storage" you can still shoot the bull with club members.

Sandy MacDonald has couple of dates set up for flying in the High School Gym. They are Sunday November 19th and 26th from 8AM until noon. Now that the outdoor planes are put safely away lets bring out the indoor planes.

See you at the meeting Monday November 6 at 6:30 PM at the Library.

Molt Taylor "Aerocar"

The Aerocar was designed by Molt Taylor in 1946. It features a propeller mounted at the end of a long tail cone, which is angled up considerably providing adequate prop clearance. The Aerocar is the only certified airplane in history that could also drive on our highways. Our Aerocar was once owned by TV host Bob Cummings, and has flown many celebrities including Marilyn Monroe! Our Aerocar is the last remaining airworthy example and is courtesy of the Sweeny family
